

Introducing... The Stereo Satanics!

Stereo Satanics. Every true rock n roll fan will one day recognize these glam-punk fashionistas from small town Balingen, Germany. Ralph on Fyre (Guitar, Vocals), Dan Shandog (Guitar, Backing Vocals), Black Matze (Bass, Backing Vocals) J. Wilde (Drums) worship at the altar of Lou Reed, Nikki Sudden and the great unspoken truth that is rock n roll music. This is post-historic Garage-Punk with its roots in the 60s and 70s, re-invigorated for today. And does the world need the Stereo Satanics? More than ever, the answer is yes. The fact it's taken anyone three albums (Surrounded by Ghosts, coming in October on Fading Ways, is their third, following "Pirate Love" and "Whole lotta nothin'") to even notice is obviously evidence of their greatness.

Join the Satanic Army (that is their street team and supporter fan base) today, and come out to see the band play live. All your doubts will erode as though Johnny Thunders in his heyday hath appeared before you. Or Nikki. Or Elvis. After all, this is truly a band Surrounded by Ghosts.

"Surrounded by Ghosts" will be available on CD and LP. Please visit The Stereo Satanics online at www.stereosatanics.de and their MySpace. We hereby welcome our newest German friends to the Fading Ways family - the more Ghosts the wiser.
